TUBERCULOSIS IN BARRE.

The statement made by the city health officer, Dr. Joe W. Jackson, at the city council meeting Friday evening, concerning the prevalence of tuberculosis cases in the city, localizes a great question, one which is being fought all over the country by laymen as well as students of medicine. This disease claims more victims each year than any other, it being estimated that 160,000 people die from it every twelvemonth; in other words, a number equal to nearly one-half the population of the state of Vermont die each year from that one cause alone. What, then, must be the number of cases? It is impossible to estimate. It has been established beyond peradventure that the disease is catchable, and moreover, that it is preventable. Those facts being settled, there remains the urgent obligation that those facts be brought home to the people of the country, that the spread of the "White Scourge," as it is sometimes called, may be prevented. That result can be attained only by educating the people. And there has been started in almost every section of the country a campaign of instruction. Marvellous results almost, have already been reached. For instance, in the city of New York the death rate from tuberculosis has been decreased by about 40 per cent during the past decade. To the campaign of education can be ascribed the whole credit for the decrease.

Here in Vermont the state board of health has taken up the work, and from now on promises to spread the gospel of health in every section of the commonwealth, by publication of statistics and by means of public lectures. So far as we have been able to learn, there has been no public meeting arranged for this city, and The Times respectfully calls the attention of the state board of health to that fact. If it is possible one lecture ought to be delivered in Barre within the year. The situation here demands it. The figures presented by the city health officer for the year 1904 show that the total number of deaths was 126, of which 19 were caused by tuberculosis. Fifteen per cent caused by tuberculosis! That disease claimed more victims than any other. And the health officer makes the statement that we may expect more, rather than less, deaths per year during the next decade, unless prompt and vigorous methods are pursued. Consequently there devolves upon this city, upon its individual people, the necessity for taking action to

A run in Boys Clothing.

Long Overcoats, Short Overcoats, and Fancy Overcoats.

The big business we do in clothing the little fellows shows that there's no "Race Suicide" in this section. Our store is headquarters for the big families to trade.

Look at these prices. (We are reducing stock before our inventory.) Twenty per cent reduction on all Winter Goods (except Black Suits.)

stop the spread of tuberculosis. It may be advisable that a sort of sanitarium be constructed, where tuberculosis patients can be treated. If such a step is considered advisable the city has land on which such a building could be erected, land which at the present time is of little value to the municipality. The Times would be pleased to hear from the citizens concerning the matter.

The nature of the granite cutting industry is such, as we all know, that it tends to the spread of the disease, unless proper personal care and the regulation of the stone dust nuisance is made. This latter matter has been before the local public for a long time, but as yet there has been no satisfactory solution of the problem. We trust that with the renewed presentation of this vitally important subject there will come a system whereby the danger will be reduced to a minimum. Meanwhile the campaign of education may properly go on.

Gov. Bell's opinion of Vermont is in the following words: "There is no place in the world where a man can live so cheaply, starve so slowly, and die so happily as in Vermont." They were spoken at the recent meeting of the Vermont association in Boston.
